

Watch your back, Kate... and your mouth

SHE is one of Britain's most popular models but, unlike Kate Moss or Naomi Campbell, Jemma Jade Saare is hardly a household name.

The 24-year-old has appeared in the likes of Tatler and GQ but usually only her lips or legs are featured – because she is a body parts model.

The student, who is 'the legs' of M&S's tights campaign, was spotted by Kate Moss's official hand model. She has been posing up since the age of nine and now takes home up to £2,000 a day.

Miss Saare, from Cannock, Staffordshire, said: 'It amazes me that I can make money out of my body parts. I am really proud of that and cannot wait for the phone to ring to see what is on offer next.'
